

ABSTRACT

A method for making a cushioning element including forcing molten gel through an extrusion die, and cutting the gel as it exits the die.